Autodesk Flare, the software only creative companion for Autodesk Flame, allows post production facilities to scale their business by giving them more access to the visual effects and finishing tools they rely on every day.

Through interviews with the creative staff of Brickyard VFX in Boston, Bond Edit in New York and Smoke+Mirrors in London, Flare's flexibility is described as it serves a variety of creative tasks that range from training junior talent to acting as a standalone visual effects station.

This video also features interviews with Marcus Schioler, Technical Product Manager, and Philippe Soeiro, Lead Product Designer for the visual effects and finishing products at Autodesk Media & Entertainment.
