

Smile. Smile. Smile. Rabbids Go Home

Guaranteed Laughter with these "Animals"

September 05, 2009 - 12:06

Rabbids Go Home is an upcoming action-adventure platform video game under development by Ubisoft Montpellier and published by Ubisoft. It's the latest installment in the Rabbids-spinoff series which started off with Rayman Raving Rabbids, however this installment doesn't feature Rayman and will be the first game in the Rabbids series without him. It will be released for the 2009 Christmas season. In a recent interview, the game director, Jacques Exertier has confirmed that Rayman will return for more action-adventure video games.

Plot

The Rabbids are finally getting tired of partying and decide that they want to go home. However, clueless of where they came from in the first place, the Rabbids decide to go to the moon. Two Rabbids start this journey by going on a quest to build a giant tower of junk to get to the moon.

More Information at www.ubi.com. Image and Videos Courtesy of Ubisoft. Video Montage: 3Dup.com